Message from the Outgoing Sacramento Post SAME President

To the Great Sacramento Post, Society of American Military Engineers

As I prepare to move from Sacramento to Winchester, Virginia, I wanted to share a few thoughts with you. Your Sacramento SAME Post is strong, alive, and well. Post membership continues to grow in all categories; more importantly, Post service to the membership and the private-public engineer partnership continues to improve as well. No where is this partnership more evident than in the actual running of the Post. I am constantly reminded of the extraordinary service that your Post officers, directors, committee chairs, and other volunteer members perform on behalf of SAME. Truly, this volunteer, service ethic makes the Sacramento Post great, and this was manifest again this year in the many streamers awarded to the Post. Your Post is relevant, and making a difference across a broad array of venues, from the annual MathCounts competition, golf tournament, and sustaining member forum, to engineering scholarships, support to a local women's shelter, and of course the 2007 Levee Conference. As I reflect on all the Post has done the past three years, it is clear that little would have occurred without the service and commitment of so many of you! If you have not yet volunteered to serve in some way, I urge you to do so. I am willing to bet that you will find that the greatest rewards are in serving. This is certainly true of my experience, and as I depart for another assignment, I am grateful to have had a part in the Post's success. Keep the Post alive--keep serving!

Respectfully,

Colonel Ron Light

The Sacramento Post Board Members wish to thank Col. Light for his commitment and dedication to the Post over the past three years. We all wish Col. Light and his family the best in all future endeavors.
